NEED FOR LESS HAMPERING RESTRICTIONS STRESSED

SPECIAL TO SUNDAY HERALD.
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received April 14, 9:25 a.m.)

New York, Yesterday.
The steady improvement in trade conditions in the United States continues, according to last week's reviews by business experts. The New York journal, "Analyst," states, "We are witnessing a slow and irregular improvement, with the steel and automobile industries and the retail trade reporting continued gains, while the activity in textile mills is unchanged."

Messrs. Dun and Bradstreet report that there is no halt in the general trade improvement and state that aggressiveness is superseding confidence. "Considerable stress is being placed upon the need for allowing the forward movement to proceed unhampered by new unnecessary restrictions," they state. Private credit and capital are becoming more easily obtainable, they add. — United Press, per S. C. Gold Bar Co.

SEQUEL TO DARING SEA RESCUES.

Moscow, Yesterday.
A specially instituted title "Hero of the Soviet Union," will be conferred on the pilots who directly participated in the rescue of the marooned survivors of the Soviet ice-breaker "Chelyuskin."

The Order of Lenin will also be conferred on the pilots and mechanics, while the pilots will be granted a bonus equal to a year's pay. — Reuter.

The daring feat was accomplished early last month, when 72 survivors of the "Chelyuskin," who were marooned on an ice-floe when the ship was crushed and sunk, were successfully rescued by planes. The survivors had been drafting with the ice since February 13, about 150 from Cape Severny.

Surprise Visit To Shipyard

London, Yesterday.
H. R. H. the Prince of Wales, who is fulfilling several engagements in Scotland, visited Glasgow yesterday, and attended a Boy Scout exhibition in the evening.

He made a surprise call yesterday afternoon at the shipbuilding yard, at Clydebank, where the giant new Cunard liner, No. 534, is under construction.

The Prince examined the hull of the new vessel and talked with the men engaged in its construction. — British Wireless Service.

Washington, Yesterday.
Senator McLeod's Deposit Payment Bill has been sidetracked due to an adroit manoeuvre, when the House of Representatives Banking Committee favourably supported an amendment measure.

It is believed that the Bill will not be passed unless the Administration so desires.

The same is believed to apply to the sidetracked Frazier-Lemke Bill for re-financing farm mortgages.

Washington, Yesterday.
The United States Senate is expected to consider the Bankhead Cotton Bill report early next week, after which, the House of Representatives is expected to act promptly.

President Roosevelt should have the measure within a week.

His acceptance is believed certain. — United Press per S. C. Gold Bar Co.

The final terms of the Bill, which provides for the compulsory control of cotton, have been agreed upon by the Senate and House of Representatives conference.

The most important change is the elimination of the Senate amendment exempting farmers who produce less than six bales.

PESSIMISTIC BELIEF IN WALL STREET

RAINEY MAY LEAD "REBELLION" IN HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

SPECIAL TO SUNDAY HERALD.
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received April 14, 8:45 a.m.)

WASHINGTON, YESTERDAY
THE UNITED STATES SILVER ISSUE HAS DIVIDED THE LEADERSHIP OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES. ONE BLOC, HEADED BY THE SPEAKER, MR. HENRY T. RAINY, IS MAKING AN EFFORT TO OBTAIN ACTION BEFORE THE ADJOURNMENT OF CONGRESS, WHILE THE OTHER BLOC HEADED BY THE FLOOR LEADER, REPRESENTATIVE BYRNS, HAS ACCEPTED PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S HINT FOR AN EARLY ADJOURNMENT. THE LATTER, THEREFORE, HAVE ADOPTED A BRIEF PROGRAMME EXCLUDING SILVER, AND DESIGNED TO END THE PRESENT SESSION OF CONGRESS IN THE MIDDLE OF MAY.

Mr. Rainey is placed in a position to lead a possible silver rebellion in the House. He has issued a statement declaring that Congressional silver sentiment is overwhelming and that silver will pass Congress this session. He said that this sentiment is reflected throughout the country generally.

He charged the gold bloc with making an effort to prevent the broadening of the currency base to include silver. He demanded an investigation of the gold bloc if the Treasury continued its investigation of silver circulation. "I will be glad to see the various silver groups in Congress united on a Silver Bill," he stated.

Mr. Fiesinger has obtained 101 signatures for the legislative right of way for his Bill.

RAINEY SEES TRADE INCREASE FROM SILVER BOOST

SPECIAL TO SUNDAY HERALD.
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received April 14, 10:04 a.m.)

Washington, Yesterday.

The Speaker of the House of Representatives, Mr. Henry T. Rainey, in a statement issued to-day, declared that the silver issue cannot be ignored in connection with the United States efforts to find new markets abroad.

"Silver is used by half the world, including the very sections in which we are seeking to find new markets," he stated.

"We want to re-establish trade with the Orient, South America and all silver-using countries."

"I shall do everything I can once the various silver groups in Congress become united on a single measure," he stated. — United Press per S. C. Gold Bar Co.

LONDON SILVER MARKET.

Prices Unchanged.

London, Yesterday.

London silver prices to-day were unchanged as follows:

Spot April 13 20-3/16 April 14 20-3/16

Forward April 13 20-5/16 April 14 20-5/16

The London on New York cross-rate at closing to-day was $-U.S. 5.15-7/16, compared with $-U.S. 5.15-3/8, yesterday's closing.

Our Own Correspondent.

Whether the gathering of silver statistics is part of the Administration's silver programme, is not disclosed, but the secrecy with which the inquiry is shrouded, is causing rumour concerning further Government aid for silver.

It is problematical what use will be made of the data, as there are no laws against ordinary speculative dealings in silver.

Some call attention to the probability that the data might eventually be used as a talking point by the Administration if silver legislation necessitates it.

Others call attention to the fact that data might be valuable in the event of the nationalisation of silver.

RUBBER RUMOURS

No Official Statement
From Holland.

London, Yesterday.
It is understood that the Dutch Colonial Office, authorised by the Dutch Government, declare that no official statement of any kind regarding rubber restriction has been made or authorised by them.

A further message from The Hague states that the Dutch proposals, although not officially sanctioned by the Government, emanated from a Government source which insists on the accuracy of the report. — Reuter.

TWO DISTINCT ISSUES

SUCCEEDED BY "STRONG MAN" HITLERITE

Berlin, Yesterday.
Herr Diehls, Inspector-General of the German Secret Police and also Vice-President of the Berlin Police, has been dismissed and will be replaced in the first-named post by Herr Himmler, who controls all police affairs outside Prussia.

Herr Diehls is a young man with Liberal tendencies, and was appointed by General Goering, the Prussian Premier and head of the Prussian Police.

It is believed that he has been treating political prisoners, including the Reichstag fire trial prisoner, Dimitroff, and other Communists, humanely, and has therefore incurred the disapproval of many of the leading Nazis.

Herr Himmler is reputed to be a "strong man" and a fanatical Hitlerite, brooking no opposition.

His appointment under the nominal leadership of General Goering is likely to lead to interesting developments vis-a-vis General Goering. — Reuter.

President Roosevelt has signed the Johnson Bill prohibiting loans to defaulting debtor nations and also providing Federal supervision for foreign loans underwritten by the United States.

Soviet Propaganda Against British Navy Through Films

Riga, Yesterday.
A film called "Sailors of the Royal Navy" showing "the atmosphere of revolt now prevailing in British warships" has been produced by the Soviet cinema industry, which announces that the public can see how revolutionary internationalism is shattering the illusion of the patriotism of the Imperialist fighting forces.

In the picture, "Seaman Clarence" turns to revolution because he is jilted in love.

The Soviet Press complains that the film does not go far enough. The officers are too gentlemanly and are not shown brutally exploiting the men, while the Lords of the Admiralty are too mild and good-humoured. — Reuter.

Mainly Women

Oriental Coiffure Styles

Hair To Match New Silhouettes.

JAPANESE INSPIRED MODE

THE West borrows clothes hints from the East this spring, so hair may go Oriental to match.

When we wore short skirts with belts at the hip-line, it was smart to have short, windblown bobs. When skirts came down several inches and waistlines moved up to their normal positions, smart women let their hair grow and buns became fashionable. Now Paris says that our gowns are to be influenced by the Orient and coiffures must complement the new silhouettes.

Straight hair lends itself best to these new Japanese-inspired styles. But it must be shiny and well-groomed. Brush for ten minutes each night at bedtime and wash once a week. Be sure to use long, upward strokes when brushing. And rinse out all soap when you shampoo. The least trace of suds will dry the scalp and give hair a dull, lusterless appearance.

Now for the Oriental coiffure: Brush your hair straight back from the forehead and upward from the nape of your neck. Arrange in a wide, flat bun and pin securely. Eastern hair dress offers piquant opportunities for evening. Try a jeweled fan or pin in the bun, for instance, or a small gardenia over the left ear.

New Tricks For Daytime Frocks

Sleeves Like Little Capelets.

THERE is a new trend in daytime frocks that is just about everything. As a practical, good looking style, there is nothing more satisfactory.

A deep wrap-around buttons to the inside wrap on one side, wraps over and buttons on the other side. You put it on like a coat, and it is not only a complete dress, but will slip on over a street dress for hurried fussing when you haven't time to change.

The sleeves are like little capelets. Of course, it irons flat, and the buttons slip in and out, link fashion. It is more successful in fabrics like pique or Bedford cord, than in sheer cottons, as the wrap-around essays put better in fabrics with more body.

school, are wide and long points of fur or stiff fabrics protrude toward the rear like sharp rapiers, or great wide bands to the elbow of fur or satin, a la Helen Hubert, make the cuffs of coats and dresses for early spring wear.

Next to sleeves, or in equal importance with them, we would stress necklines—which are square or square with a dip in front and held in place with jeweled clips at the corners.

Mexican Style In Make-Up

Tanned Complexion New Vogue.

THE growing popularity of Mexican-inspired hats and clothes for southern wear as well as for town costumes in the spring and summer necessitates a different technique in make-up.

The same powder and rouge worn with dark winter costumes won't be at all flattering if you're wearing an outfit that is bright red, yellow or some other vivid hue.

Since tawny orange shades are predominant in Mexican clothes, cosmetics to wear with them should have underlying orange tones. More rouge and lipstick will be needed if you are going to take the new Mexican colours seriously.

Foundation is all important. Instead of choosing a pure white foundation cream or lotion, get one which has orangish rachel tones in it. That will give your skin a healthy, tanned look such as native Mexicans have. Then you are ready for rouge.

Petticoats Back In Fashion

Now Attached To Latest Dresses.

THE early (about 1760) fashion of petticoat prominence is sneaking back upon us, and before long, anyone offside will be penalised. Now dresses have been serving their purpose for a number of years without petticoats, but a band of financiers of Gen. Johnson or someone must have seen how many more people could be put to work if each outfit needed a petticoat under its hem, and there you are.

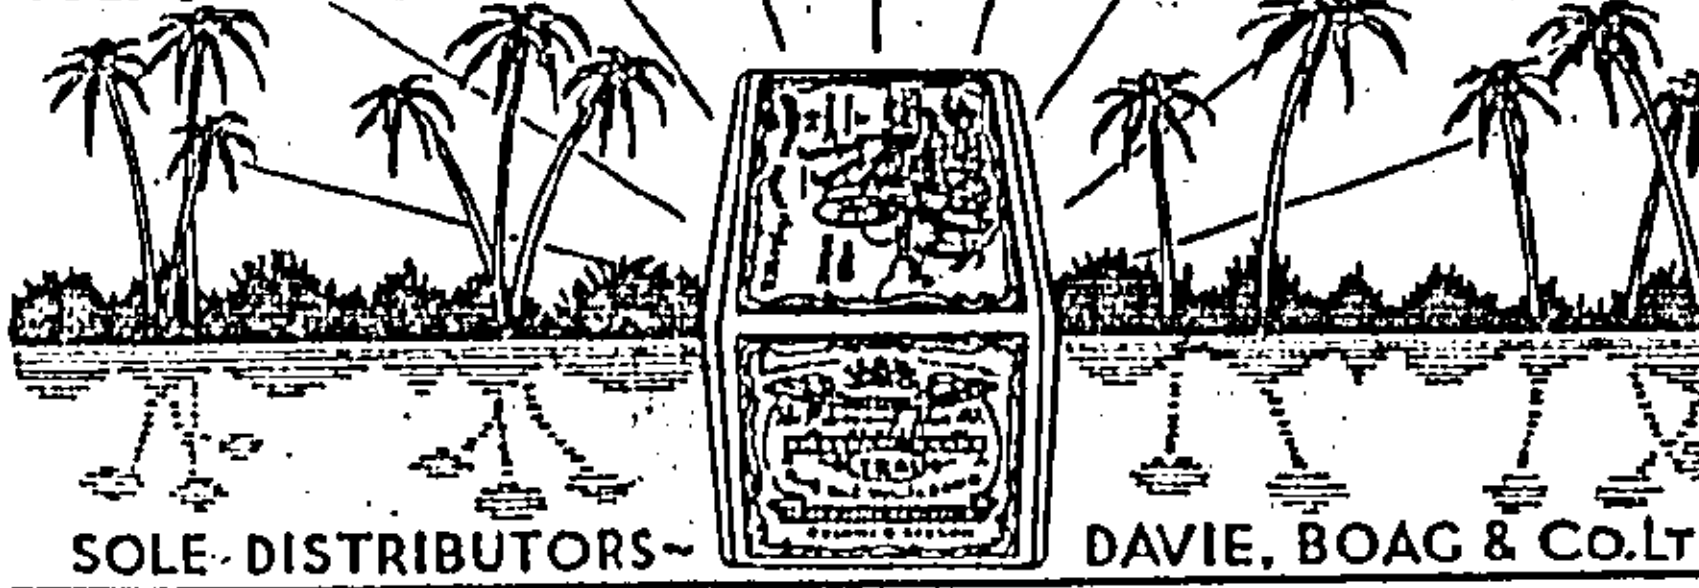

There's something about a petticoat attached to the dress, as the early colonists wore them, that gives a girl a lot of confidence; but in a pinch, you could be joyous over one undershirt for everything and just let it follow its instinct as to what frocks it wanted to appear under.

A new cream rouge on the market was made primarily to wear with Mexican-inspired frocks. It has red geranium lights in it and gives your cheeks a ruddy glow. Matching lipstick, in that same red geranium hue, brings out the best in your face as well as in your ensemble.

Did You Ever Eat Orange Bread?

BAKE IT! It's that "different" dish your family enjoys!

Here's the answer to that eternal question: What can I serve that's new? Orange Bread is delicious and if you use Royal Baking Powder it will keep fresh and moist for several days. If you haven't Royal in the house, get a can from your grocer to-day.

Boil together for about 15 minutes the peel from 2 seedless oranges, chopped fine, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup of sugar, and 1 cup of water, until it makes a thin syrup. Cool. Add 1 cup of water; add 2 tablespoons of melted shortening and 1 egg well beaten. Sift 3 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder with 2 cups of flour, and add to the above mixture. Mix thoroughly. Bake in a greased loaf pan, in a moderate oven for about 1 1/2 hours. Makes one loaf, at a cost of less than 12 cts.

BAKING HINTS.

Orange Bread may be baked immediately, or covered and kept in a cool place for several hours until ready to bake. For smooth top on loaf, brush with melted butter or milk before baking, and again just before taking from the oven.

A number of variations of this recipe using nuts and fruits, will be found in the Royal Cook Book. Write for a copy. It is FREE.

Sleeves Stressed In New Mode

Little Interest In Shoulder Line.

1934 FASHION TREND

Paris.

Sailing-the-turbulent fashion seas is a dangerous business even in a stout craft, for each house tries its best to create a wave that will rise higher than its competitor.

This year the only waves of real importance are sleeves, necklines and thigh lines. The spray from these high-crested undulations will be far-reaching and touch strangers in many lands.

It appears from the collections already shown to a less-interested, but still much concerned public from abroad (meaning everywhere but Paris) that shoulders are no longer given any thought after rounding them off and dropping down to the elbow.

It takes skill to do this well, however, for the material is often cut in one-piece with the yoke of the blouse, dress or coat and continues to midway of the shoulder and elbow where the interest itself, or the material from the elbow may fall in long, looped folds or straight panels as in the Tudor manner. Again, they may keep sleek to the wrists and there turn back into calli lly cuffs or lace frills of Henry the VIII. Cuffs, from the Maggy-Rouff

SAINTS DROP POINT AGAINST CLUB

BORDERERS NOW HOLD ADVANTAGE

RECREIO HOLD ARTILLERY

THE Club, who recorded the "double" against South China, last year's premier soccer league champions, provided a mild sensation by depriving St. Joseph's of a valuable point as the result of a goalless draw yesterday.

The Borderers scored four times in the second half against Kowloon, and are now in a very favourable position for winning the championship that only just eluded them last season. With a game in hand they are one point in arrears of the Saints.

First Division

ST. JOSEPH'S DROP VALUABLE POINT.

Club Lose Pote-Hunt Before Interval.

RODGER EXCELS

A very keenly contested game between two fine sides ended in a goalless draw on the Club ground yesterday when the home team met St. Joseph's, the League leaders.

Both teams should have scored on quite a number of occasions, but the forwards of both sides were exceptionally erratic. The Club missed a goal in the opening minute of the game. Howe passed to Baldwin, who returned a fine centre to E. Strange shot wide when only a few yards from goal.

Gosno, the outside right, had bad luck with a very good shot a few moments later. He took the ball down his wing, passed to Leonard, who returned his pass, and sent in a terrific drive which just skimmed the bar.

Rodger made a great save a few moments later when he stopped a terrific drive sent in by Leonard from the penalty spot. Taking the ball from the clearance Baldwin had bad luck with an effort which grazed the bar.

The Club were very unfortunate when Rocha attempted a shot from the wing. Rodger mis-judged, the flight, and the ball struck the inside of the right-hand post to rebound into play for Strange to clear well down field.

A few moments before half-time Pote-Hunt twisted his knee and had to be carried off the field.

After the interval Pote-Hunt, who was a complete passenger, went to outside left, and Baldwin took his place at centre-half.

St. Joseph's soon missed a goal, for from about a yard's range Ward shot across the goalmouth. Awarded a free kick for hands just outside the penalty area, Gosno missed another fine chance when he kicked over the bar.

A goalless draw was quite in accordance with the run of play; either side would have been decidedly unlucky to lose. Rodger helped the Club considerably to share the points, he made no mistakes and handled the ball perfectly.

Club: Rodger; Gamble, S. Strange, Robertson, Pote-Hunt, Duncan; Fowler, Brown, E. Strange, Howe and Baldwin.

St. Joseph's: R. Marques; Sousa, A. V. Gosno; Elms, Beltrao, Marques; B. Gosno, Ward, Leonard, Rocha and Costa.

CHINESE OLYMPIC SWIMMERS

LAU PO-HI BREAKS OWN RECORD.

Kwok Chung Hang Beats Amoy Star.

Competing in the Chinese Swimming Trials for the Far Eastern Olympiad at the Chinese Y.M.C.A. last evening, Lau Po-hi bettered his own 100 Metres Back Stroke record of 1.23.3 secs., which he established at the National Meeting in Nanking last year, by clocking 1.21.0 secs.

In the 1,500 Metres—42 lengths—Kwok overtook his rivals on the third lap, and was then in the lead to the finishing line.

Many were disappointed in Wong Hung-lung, the Amoy star, who covered the distance in 33 minutes 55 seconds. Wong possesses stamina and a strong physique, but lacks adequate training.

Kwok Chun-hung, who finished in 28 minutes 48 seconds, used the breast stroke for the greater part of the race.

Results were as follows:

100 Metres Back Stroke (Men's):

1. Lau Po-hi; 2. Shek Kam-pui; 3. Lai Yim-jak.

Time:—1 min. 21 secs.

Also swam: Kwok Han-ming and Lo Sui-lam.

100 Metres (Women's):

1. Leung Wing-han; 2. Chan Woon-king; 3. Lau Kwai-chun.

Time:—1 min. 37 secs.

100 Metres (Men's):

1. Tsang Ho-fuk; 2. Chan Chun-nan; 3. Kwok Chun-hung.

Time:—1 min. 11 secs.

Also swam: Ng Chih-min, Lo Hung-sin, Ng Wah-chau, and Wong Yik-hung.

100 Metres Breast Stroke (Women's):

1. Chan Woon-king; 2. Lau Kwai-chun; 3. Lam To-lai.

Time:—1 min. 53 secs.

1,500 Metres (Men's):

1. Kwok Chun-hung; 2. Mak Wai-ming; 3. Shek Kam-pui.

Time:—28 mins. 48 secs.

Also swam: Wong Hung-lung.

COLONY CHINESE AQUATIC STARS.

Nominations For Canton Meet.

At the conclusion of the events the following were selected to compete against the Canton swimmers next Friday and Saturday after which the final Chinese selection will be made:

Women's—Misses Leung, Wing-han, Lau Kwai-chun and Chan Woon-king.

Men's 50 metres and 100 metres breast stroke—Lau Po-hi and Ng Tsze-min.

50 metres—Wong Yik-hung.

100 and 400 metres—Tsang Ho-fuk and Chan Chun-nan.

100, 400 and 1,500 metres free style and 200 metres breast stroke—Kwok Chun-hung.

200 metres back stroke—Mel Chih-cheung.

200 metres breast stroke—Wong Sin-min.

100 metres back stroke—Lai Yim-jak.

1,500 metres—Mak Wai-ming and Shek Kam-pui.

The selection committee were comprised of Messrs. Yeung Chee-nan, Ko Shek-wai, Lo Tze-hing, Lee Hin-leung, Lo Hop-fu and Chan Tze-ching.

The next swimming trial will be held next Friday and Saturday when local swimmers will compete against the Canton team, at the Chinese Y.M.C.A. Tickets will be limited to 200.

GOVERNOR'S CUP GAME TO-DAY.

Chinese Team Selected.

The following will represent the Chinese team in the Governor's Cup soccer match at Caroline Hill to-day at 4 p.m.:

Pau Ka-ping; Li Tin-sang, Tam Kong-pak; Lau Kwok-him, Leung Wing-chiu, Lee Kwok-wai; Tsao Kwai-shan, Tsao Kwai-hang, Fung King-cheong, Lee Wai-tong, and Ip Pak-wah.

Reserves: Ho Ka-king, Lau Mau, Ho chor-in and Wong Ki-leung.

TO-DAY'S LEAGUE GAME

The Athletic will meet the East Lanes in the premier soccer division at Sookunpo to-day at 4.45 p.m.

BISTRE DISAPPOINTS PUNTERS

MR. DEITZ RIDES FOUR WINNERS

COPPER IDOL'S SUCCESS

FOR the third time this season the winner of the second leg of the double went unbacked when Mr. Paul Botelho rode West Parade to victory in the Commonwealth Handicap at the Third Extra Race Meeting at the Valley yesterday. This followed the eclipse of Bistre a red-hot favourite, in the first leg, and the eleven winning tickets on Copper Idol, the winner of the first leg, received $335, with the pool worth $3,687.

In a day of upsets—only one favourite won—two three-figure dividends were returned, Copper Idol (Mr. Harriman) paying $177 and West Parade (Mr. P. Botelho) rewarding supporters with $101. A surprise was provided when Bright Star was disqualified from second place in the Hongham Bay Handicap on account of Mr. Liang weighing in at 155 lb. instead of 158 lb.

Mr. Norman Deitz was again the leading jockey, recording four wins, a second, and a third in eight starts. Mr. Gilbert Harriman had two wins. Mr. Proulx was a notable absentee.

Wonderful Stag provided an upset in the Commonwealth Handicap when he recorded a win under Mr. Deitz in a field of ten starters to pay $34.90. Lemberg (Mr. Heard) and High Speed (Mr. Harriman), first and second favourites, were unplaced.

Mr. Heard sent Lemberg into the lead from the start and was closely challenged by Solar Star (Mr. Black) up to the Rock. At this point Mr. Paul Botelho brought Spinaway through with a rush to enter the home straight neck and neck with Lemberg.

It looked like Spinaway's race at the stands, but Wonderful Stag, which was not expected to stay the distance, took full advantage of the slow pace set at the start to romp home by three lengths from Jungle Jim (Mr. Liang). Mr. Botelho having to be content with third place, in front of Solar Star (Mr. Black). Lemberg was fifth and High Speed sixth.

Mr. Harriman Wins

The favourite was also beaten out of a place in the Union Plate. In Good Time (Mr. Ip) finishing nowhere in a field of 18 starters over six furlongs.

Tolsan refused to start and was taken back to the paddock by Mr. Poy, who was thrown at the foot of the incline, but not hurt.

Mr. Harriman got The Bodega away to a good start, but had relinquished the lead at the Rock. The pony, however, responded well at the distance post to secure a lead which he maintained against a strong challenge from Delightful Chance (Mr. Deitz), winning by three lengths to pay $19.30 for a win. The Carp (Mr. Liang) came through with a powerful rush at the finish to beat Hell For Leather (Mr. Heard), third favourite, out of place. Kitap (Mr. Black) was fifth.

The cash sweep first prize unaccountably dropped from $535, on the first race, to $339.

Mr. Deitz's Clever Win

Brilliant riding by Mr. Norman Deitz was responsible for Soldier of China's win by 1½ lengths from Bright Star (Mr. Liang), the favourite, in the Hongham Bay Handicap "B" Class. He played the waiting game to perfection, bringing Soldier of China, which was last at the distance post, into the lead on the rails to pay a win dividend of $20.30.

Flying Tourist (Mr. Soares) was in the lead up to the home straight where he was displaced by Electric Star (Mr. Butler) and Prima Donna (Mr. Harriman).

Bright Star finished strongly, but only bent the Kong Bros entry by a neck, Flying Tourist being fourth, Prima Donna and Gladiator were fifth and sixth.

Bright Star Disqualified

A surprise was provided shortly after the result had been announced when a notice was posted to the effect that Bright Star, the second placed pony, had been disqualified on account of his jockey being unable to draw the correct weight on weighing-in.

The official result of the race was:

Soldier of China

Electric Star

Flying Tourist

Mr. Liang, the rider of Bright

Star, weighed in at 155 lbs.—31b under weight.

Mr. Black took Lucy Glitters into the lead in the Rosehill Handicap, The Goose (Mr. Butler) being close on his heels. Princess Angelina (Mr. P. Botelho) at last started satisfactorily and ran beautifully up to the Rock where she lay fourth, looking every inch the winner. Mr. Botelho then used his whip and the pony lost its stride and all chances of the race.

Saucy Face finished fresher than The Goose to give Mr. Deitz his third win in four races by a neck, jockeyship telling over the last quarter.

Lucy Glitters finished third, many lengths behind, with Glorious Star (Mr. Pan) fourth and St. Joan (Mr. Harriman) fifth.

Copper Idol Upsets "Double"

Fourteen subscription griffins of three seasons met in the Spring Handicap over 1¼ miles and last year's batch produced the second and third ponies, Copper Idol (Mr. Harriman), a 1934 sub., upsetting the "double" by winning by three-quarters of a length from Warrington (Mr. Heard) to pay $177.00 to his 53 backers.

Soldier of Fortune (Mr. Ip) took the lead with Racing Boy (Mr. Fung), Bistre (Mr. Pan) lying in a good position at seventh. At the Rock Mr. Pan sent the red-hot favourite up to fourth, but seemed unable to break through. The "Soldier" candidate was running well, though the field was rapidly decreasing the gap.

Coming into the straight it looked like Warrington's race, but Mr. Gilbert Harriman brought Copper Idol through a crowd to win in an exciting finish. Mr. Deitz riding National Day into third place ahead of Soldier of Fortune. Bistre was a poor fifth.

"Soldier" Leads All Way

Mr. Deitz was probably sorry that he took Racing Pride instead of Soldier of Germany, which was ridden into first place in the Colonial Stakes by Mr. "Ferdie" Soares. Mr. Deitz was unplaced for the first time in six races.

HONG KONG, SUNDAY, APRIL 15, 1934.

The Second Phase.

HARDLY had the outbursts of praise for President Roosevelt's first year died away, when it was perceived that he was entering upon a second year which promises to be quite different. His very success has created new difficulties. Behind every problem solved two fresh ones spring up. Moreover, his good fortune, or skill, seems to have failed him in one or two important matters. It is not necessary to argue that his cancellation of the air mail contracts was an executive mistake, for his own subsequent steps have been a tacit confession of that. If his newspaper clipping bureau has kept him informed of the opinion of the press, he will have seen that it was almost unanimous on that point. Defeat of the St. Lawrence treaty meant a certain loss of prestige for him, since he had so strongly and persistently urged its ratification. More significant, and even ominous, is the open disregard of his known views regarding the bonus and veterans' pensions exhibited by both houses of Congress. These indications of a change in the attitude toward the Administration are too plain to be misread. The chief question is whether these new occasions will teach the President new duties: Will he be able to draw from his resources of character the qualities needed to fit altered circumstances? His first year of unexampled ascendancy was marked by swift decision, great daring to the point sometimes of audacity, and brilliant political leadership which evoked the admiration of the whole country. Before him now lies a work more grim but no less essential. What will be required of him is firmness, rather than versatility, a fixed determination to stand by the principles of economy and budget-balancing which he has laid down, no matter how violently they may be attacked. It will be not merely a case for upholding the authority of the President. What will have to be maintained, at all odds is the soundness of his policy in the matter of the budget and of national credit. Much more than party discipline is involved. It may be that Mr. Roosevelt will have to break with a large number of Democrats now in Congress. Even from that severe test, his country will wish him not to flinch. If the time for dashing leadership should seem to have passed, the desire of the American people will be to look to him, in hours of dissension and apparent thwarting of his purposes, as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land. With his extraordinary gift for reading the mind of the country, it cannot be doubted that the President himself is fully aware that the coming months will demand of him the exertion of powers which he has not hitherto had to draw upon. He knows that criticism will be oftener heard and be sharper. As the Congressional elections approach, the strife of political tongues will be louder, and will not spare Mr. Roosevelt. It is altogether probable that he will not be able to obtain from the present session of Congress, which it is hoped will end by the middle of May, all of the legislation which he has recommended. Several measures will have to be jettisoned if the ship is to be kept in the harbour. But should he, on this account, lament that "all these things are against me"? Not if he has the reserve of mental strength and spiritual poise which he will need in the trying days before him. If he has to face new dangers, he may turn them into new opportunities. He may be sure that all Americans (and indeed the people of all nations, who recognise how much America's recovery would aid world recovery) would take deep delight in discovering that he is also a President who stands four-square to all the winds of adversity that blow.

HONG KONG AND THE NEW TERRITORIES — No. 100.

The Egrets And Pond Herons.

Saturday 7th April was again devoted to an expedition to the Lam Tsun Valley; it was a hot afternoon and at first very few birds showed themselves, later in the afternoon, however, our list of species soon rapidly increased till it reached the figure of thirty. All the summer visiting Egrets were identified including the Cattle Egret eleven seen, the Little Egret two, the Chinese Pond Heron one in full plumage and in immature plumage and the Fokien Pond Heron, one. The Cattle Egret, Bubulcus ibis coromandus, is easy to recognize: head, neck and dorsal plumes glossy orange; rest of plumage white; bill yellow; legs and feet black. The Little Egret, Egretta g. garzetta, is entirely white with two long very narrow feathers growing from the nape which can be seen quite easily; bill black; legs and feet black. The Chinese Pond Heron, Ardeola bacchus, has head, long neck and crest chestnut-red, back slate coloured, rest of body-plumage, tail and wings white, the wing quills slightly mottled with brown; bill yellow tipped with black; legs and feet dull yellow. The bird that we have been calling the Fokien Pond Heron, Ardeola actiacus fohkienensis, may finally prove to be merely a young form of the Chinese Pond Heron. La Touche does not even mention it. The chief distinguishing characters are, head and hind neck heavily streaked purplish-slate and buff, back dark slate colour; wings creamy white, most of the coverts more or less washed with slate, primaries partially light slate; rest of plumage white. The bird appears much more streaked than the adult Chinese Pond Heron especially so when it is at rest.

Other interesting birds seen included a White-breasted Waterhoo which was feeding in a flooded paddy field with a party of Egrets. A bird very easy to recognise with its grey upper parts, white cheeks and underparts and chestnut lower belly and under tail coverts; bill greenish; legs and feet greenish yellow. A flock of the beautiful Crested Bunting was observed at close range, the male is entirely chestnut and black, a very striking contrast and these colours in the male and the presence of a crest in both sexes makes identification easy.

The Hang Ha Po wood was dominated by Koels which screamed and whistled at each other; but one other species of cuckoo was also seen clearly, namely a Crow Pheasant. The English name of this bird is curious misnomer for the bird is neither a Crow nor a Pheasant, though a casual glance reveals certain characteristics of both, but a ground Cuckoo. Unlike most Cuckoos the female of this species lays her eggs in her own nest. The female of the Koel almost invariably chooses the nest of the Black-necked Myna. The Crow Pheasant is a handsome bird, entirely black save the wings which are a rich chestnut-brown.

An interesting and uncommon Ceanothus was found in full flower on a bank on the south side of the Lam Tsun Valley. It was C. minax which is recorded in Dunn and Tutcherson from Castle Peak only. The inflorescences are very large, a foot or eighteen inches in length and visible a long distance away because of the colour of the flowers. The buds are a greenish white and the flowers, diameter 1 1/4 inches, white tinged with green except the upper petal which has a reddish purple centre; the anthers are black. This very vigorous shrubby climber is excessively spiny, and it was with difficulty that we managed to collect specimens for study. The bank covered with this rare plant was well worth seeing, it is likely to be in flower for at least another week.

Other, and common, trees and shrubs now in flower include Ehretia longiflora a tree with masses of small white or pale pink tubular flowers. The tree is deciduous and all last year leaves have dropped and have been replaced by new leaves reminiscent of young apple foliage. This tree is in the Forget-me-not family, the Boraginaceae. Homalium fagifolium is in flower on the Peak and elsewhere, the small white flowers are arranged along a simple pendulous raceme which from a distance looks like a catkin; there should be no difficulty in recognizing it. The foliage is attractive and presumably the specific name fagifolium has been given to this plant because the leaves are reminiscent of those of the Beech, Fagus. Ilex asprella a shrub with small leaves like those of a Privet is also in flower. The flowers are in small clusters of two or three, each on a short stalk, in the axils of the leaves. They are white and small but the shrub in flower looks rather attractive.

"KEEP RIGHT"
WOULD SAVE
ROAD DEATHSProfessor Advocates
Change In Rule.CITY DWELLERS GROWING MORE DEAF

London. There would be far fewer traffic accidents if the driving rule of "Keep Left" were changed to "Keep Right."

This is the belief of Professor Henry J. Spooner, who founded Great Britain's first school of motoring. He insists that road safety is a matter for psychologists as well as traffic experts.

Interviewed on modern traffic problems in London, he stated: "I would at once abolish the driving on the left rule, I would make all vehicles keep to the right of the street. It would be a simple matter. Some people have said that chaos would result, but they are wrong."

"My chauffeur, who drives every day in London, finds no difficulty in obeying the 'right' rule on the Continent. I have questioned scores of Englishmen who have driven abroad, and they all say that they fall in with the new order very quickly. Right-Handed Tendency."

"Why should we not change over? It is quite simple. The majority of people in this country, and indeed in every country, are right-handed. Watch a child beginning to walk. If it is a right-handed child it immediately steps off with its right foot. If it wants to turn it swings round on its right foot. In other words its foot follows its hand. A left-handed child steps off with its left foot."

"I am satisfied that the people of London and all big cities are more deaf, and are growing more deaf, than their ancestors of pre-motoring and pre-mechanical noises days. I am satisfied that what often looks just stupidity is really due to the fact that the pedestrian who steps suddenly off the pavement has not heard the noise of oncoming traffic."

"So I say that by changing the road rule from left to right a considerable decrease in road accidents would follow. The majority of people keep to the right, and in stepping off the pavement would therefore face oncoming traffic and not, as is the case to-day, have their backs to it." — Reuter.

Nerves

THE rush and hurry of modern life result in nervous strain and loss of vitality. You become "run-down" and "nervy." The cause is simply that the wastage of the nerve cells and tissues has not been made good by sufficient of the restorative elements to be obtained only from nourishment.

The food products from which "Ovaltine" is made—malt, milk and eggs—are Nature's foods which are richest in nerve restoring nourishment. Eggs, in particular, are rich in organic phosphorus compounds which are essential for building up the brain and nerves.

Drink this delicious beverage at and between meals instead of tea, coffee, etc. "Ovaltine" is richest in food value and most economical in use.

LONDON TOPICS

From
OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
London, March 28.

Expensive Eyesore

There are few worse eyesores in London than the traffic circus at the northern approach to Lambeth Bridge.

It cost £47,000, but the island, which was to be turned into "a lawn and a garden," after two years is still a mud patch. It is decorated by notices sardonically warning us to "Keep off the grass."

At either end of the mud patch stand shabby posts from which hang road repair lanterns. Their function is to call motorists' attention to the existence of the roundabout.

The scene is a desolate one, but there is good news.

A Westminster Council official assures me that two committees—one to see to the matter of permanent lighting, and the other to carry out the work of laying the lawn and garden—will soon have the matter in hand.

Fog and Air Services

During fog at Croydon airport the Zone System is tested out under rigorous conditions.

The Control Tower officer is responsible for putting it into operation. He is guided by the weather reports. When visibility horizontally is reduced to 100 yards and vertically to 100 feet he hangs out a small notice with the words "Q B I."

This is a sign that the system is in operation. Aircraft can only enter the zone by permission from the control tower. This is given by wireless.

Signal bombs reveal to the pilot the landing area.

"T-Leif Jones"

Lord Rhyndar, who has been elected president of the Liberal Council in succession to the late Lord Grey, was the leader of the Temperance Party in the House of Commons. His nickname was "T-Leif Jones."

He is a Welshman by birth, but went to Australia as a boy, took a first in history at Melbourne University and later a first in mathematics at Oxford.

While reading for the Bar he took a vacation tutorship with the Carlisle family. He went to Castle Howard intending to stay three months and remained for 40 years.

Lady Carlisle, whose secretary he became, was one of the leading Liberals of the day and the founder of the Women's Liberal Federation. She enabled him to enter Parliament.

He was given a peerage after his defeat at Camberne in the last General Election.

Mr. Lansbury's Dress Suit

When Mr. George Lansbury first became a Cabinet Minister he was faced with perplexing dress problems. He compromised on some and side-stepped others, according to his son, Mr. Edgar Lansbury, whose biography of his father was published recently by Sampson Low.

The older Lansbury's invitation to Mr. MacDonald's first sessional dinner said "evening dress."

Mr. Lansbury had none. He wrote to the Prime Minister asking if he could come "as he was."

A secretary replied that it was imperative that he should come in "tails and full regalia."

Mr. Lansbury gave in and bought a dress suit.

But he went to the dinner in his well-worn reefer jacket and baggy trousers.

Ironically, it was Mr. ("Dress-Suit") Thomas who was to blame. He called a special committee meeting. It lasted so long that Mr. Lansbury had not time to return to Bow-road to change.

Class And Cash

Evening dresses raised problems of class and cash for other Socialist Ministers.

The late Mr. James Stewart, the only barber to become a Minister, once told of his dilemma.

He had an invitation to a function given by the Speaker. He formerly had a dress suit, but he gave it to a son in Canada.

He declined to buy another for ceremonial purposes. He wrote to the Speaker, saying he recognised that it was his duty, as it was his desire, to attend, but unless he could come as he was he begged to be excused.

Mr. Stewart was luckier than Mr. Lansbury. He was invited to come as he liked. He went in his every-day clothes.

Romance And No. 10

The presentation by the Cabinet of a wedding present to one of their colleagues—they have just given Mr. Walter Elliot six candlesticks—is an unusual, but not a unique event.

There have been two previous instances of Cabinet Ministers being married while in office.

The first was Mr. Winston Churchill. He joined the Cabinet in April, 1908, as President of the Board of Trade and was married in the following September.

The second was Sir Arthur Griffith-Boscawen. He became Minister of Agriculture in February, 1921, and married his second wife later in the same year.

Lord Reading nearly furnished a third example three years ago. His wedding was in August and he joined the National Government as Foreign Secretary in October.

Style on the Outer Isles.

Mr. T. B. W. Ramsay, who is to bring before the House of Commons the case of the woman of Scarp, whose twins were born in places more than 50 miles apart, visited the island recently.

While he was there the boat, which is summoned from Harris to Scarp by a signalling system, arrived in record time.

The boatmen knew their Member of Parliament was on the island, and thought the summons was to take him off.

When they arrived they found that their solitary passenger was a Jewish pedlar who had been selling silk stockings to the women of the lonely isle.

Scarp has a total population of just over 100 persons.

Politicians v. T. U. C.

Messrs. Bevan and Cove are getting more members of the Socialist Party to agree with them in favour of not serving on the Statutory Committee to be set up under the Employment Bill.

Recently they had the boycott to themselves, but a meeting has made it apparent that they had acquired some camp-followers and retainers.

It is provided in the Bill that one member of the Committee is to be appointed after consultation with organisations representing workers. The position carries remuneration and expenses. There are to be consultations between the Parliamentary Party and the Trade Union Congress, who are in favour of serving on the Committee.

Knew The Part

Sheep are to be included in the cast of the forthcoming musical play at Drury Lane.

This is not quite a novelty. When "Joseph and his Brethren" was produced at His Majesty's, the company had a decidedly zoological flavour.

After one of the final rehearsals, which had not proved very promising, the late Sir Herbert Tree, standing on a stage packed with actors, actresses, camels, sheep, dogs and scenery, exclaimed with dramatic fury, "I have engaged the largest cast ever seen in this beautiful theatre, and not a soul knows his part!"

At that moment was heard a feeble "Baa-a-a." "I am sorry," said Tree. "One does."

Pity the Poor Liberals

The closing down of the Liberal Federal Council's offices in Liverpool is one more example of the political and financial poverty of Liberalism.

Samuelite members of Parliament profess to have no regrets at the disappearance of a body which has existed for many years.

WINDJAMMER NOW AN AQUARIUM

Shortly To Undertake World Tour.

SAILING UNDER OWN CANVAS

San Francisco. Most of the once-proud wind-jammers of Pacific sailing days are now dismantled, doing service as barges or floating fish-reduction plants, or else rotting unused, but the Star of Alaska has come to a different fate.

The old vessel, once the joy of the Alaska packers' salmon fleet, has been turned into a travelling aquarium, carrying glass tanks full of the ocean's strangest freaks to be displayed to the curious at sixpence a look. She will shortly make a world tour.

A tug will give her a lift through the Golden Gate, but once beyond the heads, spanning new canyons will speed her on her way.

Christened the Balcutha, the vessel sailed down the way into the Firth of Clyde 44 years ago. In 1904 she was purchased by the Alaska packers.—Reuter.

MAN WHO FEEDS MOSQUITOES

Novel U.S. Government Position.

EXPERIMENTAL INSECTS

Washington.

Any one who has ever climbed over the bedroom furniture with a folded newspaper in search of one loud buzzing little mosquito may like to hear about the job of Carroll Smith, age 24.

Every seven days, winter and summer, Smith rolls up a shirt sleeve, puts on a glove and places his arm in a cage to give 200 mosquitoes their weekly meal of blood—his blood.

That among other things, is what Uncle Sam pays Smith for. He is employed at the Agriculture Department's Bureau of Entomology. The mosquitoes are kept for experimental purposes.

Smith says he doesn't mind the job. The welts disappear within an hour.—Reuter.

BIT THE HAND THAT FED THEM.

Stray Dogs Invade Butcher's Shop.

Cleveland, Ohio.

Mr. Joseph Bigelow, a butcher, likes dogs.

A stray one appeared at his shop door and he tossed it a bone.

The next day two dogs, lean and hungry, came begging. Mr. Bigelow tossed them bones also.

After that every dog in the neighbourhood arrived at the shop in anticipation of some "doggy dole."

Finally Mr. Bigelow had to call the police.

The dogs he had befriended walked right into his shop and made off with the best steaks on the counters.—Reuter.

Personal Pars.

Dr. J. W. Ahin, of the Sarawak Oilfields, Ltd., Miri, Sarawak, is staying at the Repulse Bay Hotel.

Mr. G. W. Potts, of Messrs. Benjamin and Potts, stock brokers, left on Friday by the s.s. "President Jefferson" for Shanghai.

Brigadier General D. W. Hand, of the United States Army, and Mrs. Hand, from Manila, are among the guests staying at the Repulse Bay Hotel.

The Right Rev. Bishop Ronald Hall, was among the passengers who left by the s.s. "President Jefferson" on Friday for Shanghai. Bishop Hall is making a tour of the outlying districts of his diocese.

They say it was doomed year ago, that it had no executive powers, and that lately it was more concerned with municipal politics. It consisted of representatives of local Liberal associations.

It was, however, largely maintained by the subscriptions of a few wealthy men.

There are not many fairy godfathers in Liberalism to-day.

HOBBIES OF BRITAIN'S STATESMEN

Mr. Runciman A Model Ship Collector.

PREMIER MOST VERSATILE

London.

Cabinet Minister have their hobbies like lesser mortals—and one of the most interesting is that of Mr. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade.

He collects model ships. One of his collection is a model of an old-time fighting ship constructed entirely of bone by French prisoners of war more than 100 years ago. The bone used was taken from the prisoners' meat ration.

This remarkable model has just been re-rigged and overhauled by Lieutenant Hunt, curator of the Royal Naval College at Greenwich. It has been placed in Mr. Runciman's room at the Board of Trade.

The most valuable model in the collection is a full working model to scale of the Royal Charles, a three-decker battleship built in the late 17th Century.

Perhaps the Prime Minister is the most versatile of the all members of the Cabinet in his hobbies.

He plays golf, he is a great walker—often to be seen out before breakfast in St. James's Park—he is an authority on art and an enthusiast for music, and he has an extensive knowledge of modern science and the antiquities.

Mr. Baldwin used to play football and cricket—and is still an enthusiast for both games.

After watching local "soccer" battles in his Bewdley constituency he has more than once given the teams a little friendly advice on field tactics at the end. He is interested in pigs and pipes, and he is also a great reader.—Reuter.

LOCAL NEWS BREVITIES

Rainfall in the Colony during the 24 hours ending at 10 a.m. yesterday was .01 inch. The total rainfall since January 1, is 4.13 inches, against an average of 8.01 inches.

A dock coolie, Poon Pan, 32 years of age, received a fractured left leg when he fell from a 10 feet high plank, while working at the Kowloon Docks on Friday.

The R.M.S. Empress of Asia is due here on Wednesday morning from Manila, and will berth at the Kowloon wharf. She will leave for Shanghai and Vancouver on Friday morning.

One case of meningitis and a case of enteric fever were the only two cases of notifiable diseases reported in the Colony during the 24 hours ending on Friday.

The weekly returns of vaccinations carried out by the Vaccination Section of the St. John's Ambulance Brigade, ending yesterday, totalled 26,163. The total includes vaccinations carried out in the New Territories.

Lau Pat-hai, a schoolboy living at No. 14 Jervois Street, was removed to the Government Civil Hospital in a serious condition, suffering from a fractured skull, as the result of a fall from a wall in Robinson Road on Friday.

Sergeant Davis has reported to the Police that while driving his car, No. 274, on the main road, near On Hong, a Chinese, carrying two buckets of water, stepped in front of his car and was knocked down, sustaining injuries to his back and head. He was taken to the Kowloon Hospital on Friday.

RECEIVING STOLEN GOODS FROM JUVENILE

Sentence of one month's hard labour was imposed on Ng Chung, unemployed, by Mr. Q. A. A. MacFadyen at the Central Police Court yesterday morning, for receiving stolen goods from a juvenile at a godown in New Street. The boy was charged with the stealing, and was remanded until Tuesday. Inspector James prosecuted.

"MIRACLE" CRY IN CHURCH

Head of Virgin That Gathers No Dust.

STATUE PHENOMENON PROVED

Rome.

The wondrous cry, "Miracol! Miracol!" rang through the parish church of Orapa, near Biella. The packed congregation sank on their knees and bowed their heads in ecstasy.

They had seen the face of the statue of the Black Virgin wiped with a fine white cloth by the Rector, Mgr. Eliseo Majia.

Not a particle of dust was to be seen on the cloth, although no one had been allowed to approach the statue for weeks before.

When the shoulders of the statue were wiped they were found to have a thick coating of dust.

A Priest praying before the high altar in 1720 first noticed that while the rest of the statue was covered with dust, there was not a particle on the face of the Madonna or Child.

The new test was carried out before an ecclesiastical commission.—Reuter.

NATURALISATION OF ALIENS.

Full Regulations Announced.

Full regulations regarding naturalisation of aliens are published in the Government Gazette this week.

The regulations published provide for the naturalisation of ordinary alien subjects, and special regulations are issued for the naturalisation of aliens with children, and of persons with respect to whose British Nationality doubt exists.

It also provides for the naturalisation of minors, of persons naturalised prior to the passing of British Nationality and Status of Aliens Act, 1914, and of women of British birth, married to a subject of a State at war with England.

The regulations provide for declaration of allegiance and retention, resumption and acquisition of British Nationality.

MR. CHARLTON AIDS INJURED COOLIE.

Knocked Down By Callous Driver.

A coolie was found lying in an unconscious condition, by Mr. J. G. Charlton, assistant Government Marine Surveyor, at the junction of Kwai Chung Road and Tam Kwai Street, Kowloon City, at 10.30 on Friday. He was taken to the Kowloon Hospital by Mr. Charlton.

The man later regained consciousness, but was unable to give any details, except that he was knocked down by a motor vehicle which did not stop.

Luck A Minor Agent In Life

Too Often Bears Blame For Misfortune

RELIGION ELIMINATES CHANCE

(By the Rev. J. N. Lewis Bryan.)

(This is another of the series of articles written exclusively for the "Sunday Herald" by the local Army chaplain.)

I WONDER how often you and I, when things have not gone as well as we had wished, or some unexpected misfortune has crossed our path, have turned around and said "Just my rotten luck!"

And what is more, we have honestly and truly believed that our luck was to blame, for most of us believe in luck to a greater or less degree, especially in bad luck, and we frequently tell the world that it is dead out—that we can't put a foot right,—have struck a bad patch and so on.

But if we stop and think for a moment, are we really dominated by this thing we call Luck? Is it responsible for so many of the lesser ills that overtake us?

If we are honest about it, we shall have to decide that luck has had, in most cases, nothing to do with it. We, and only we, are to blame.

There are misfortunes that are inevitable. No child, for instance, can be held responsible for having been born of parents who fail to realize their responsibilities, and neglect them, or being born in direct poverty, are forced to live under squalid conditions. Much less are they responsible for being born in some way physically deformed, or mentally deficient.

But most of the lesser ills and troubles of life spring from our own want of judgment, or lack of foresight, thriftlessness, or want of diligence in our jobs, or some other cause of which we ourselves have sown the careless seed.

Reasons For Blame.

The man who rushes on to the platform just in time to see the tail end of the train going out, is illogical if he blames his luck. The odds are at least ten to one that he is to blame himself. He probably stayed the extra two minutes (that made all the difference) in bed, under the warm blankets, because it seemed a little colder that morning or he had an extra sausage for his breakfast, or else he could not stand the sight of it and ordered eggs at the platform.

SIX CASES FOR THE SESSIONS.

Wednesday's Hearings At Supreme Court.

Six cases will come up for hearing before the Chief Justice, the Hon. Mr. A. D. McGregor at the Criminal Sessions, commencing at the Supreme Court at 10 a.m. on Wednesday.

Mok Kau, alias Ho Yau, Ho Cheung, and Lo Kwai, are charged with breach of deportation orders.

Wong Yung, alias Wong Lo, is charged with robbery by two or more.

Cheung Po-kung, Fong Kwai, and Yu Chung are charged with conspiracy to commit an offence, while the first defendant faces an extra charge of the unlawful possession of arms and ammunition, and the third defendant is charged with the unlawful possession of a weapon and ammunition.

Chan Yung-hing and Leung Fai are charged with wounding with intent, and, alternatively, with wounding.

It is quite possible to be happy without being lucky, as the world reckons these things, and many whom the world considers to be lucky are far from being happy.

Napoleon believed in his lucky star, but it brought death and disaster to hundreds of thousands of his fellow-men. There are millions of others who would give anything to be able to get outside a plate of bacon and eggs.

The luckiest man in the world is he who has a conscience void of offence towards God and towards man, whose past is forgiven, and whose future is in the hands of Him Who doeth all things well.

Life Not A Gamble

Life is not a gamble in its deeper realities, for religion has eliminated the element of chance. That was what Christ meant when He said, "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and all the other things that we all strive after so desperately. We all want to be happy, we even sing about it, but in what does true happiness consist? It consists not in what we have, but in what we are, not in what we have gained, but in what we have given.

We may win the Irish Sweep, or the Colicutt, and die the next day, and what is the good of it to us? We may think that happiness lies in sensation. Well, that does not last for ever, and it soon palls, and we are worse off than ever, and what is more it sends in the bill, and someone has to pay it. We pay the first instalment, and sometimes it is left to our descendants to settle up the rest.

ARCHBISHOP'S CASE FOR YOUTH INTERFERENCE BREAKS CONFIDENCE

The Conduct Of Families

(BY MARGARET LANE)

THE Archbishop of Canterbury, preaching in the parish church of Sandgate, in Kent, where I used to repair at the tail of a laconic crocodile every Sunday when I was at school, has been giving the congregation of that respectable seaside town advice on the conduct of families, and the relations proper between the older generation and the new.

The Archbishop, who is nearly seventy and a bachelor, set his sympathy, rather surprisingly, on the side of youth, and urged the parents sitting in the uncomfortable pews below him to "be more eager to try to understand the new generation rather than to be always harping on the benefits of the old."

This is not revolutionary advice, but sound and necessary, for there perhaps never was a time when the two generations found each other more difficult to understand than they do to-day.

There is always a gulf of strangeness between one generation and another: one discards as useless what the other held dear, and spends its strength to achieve ends the other thinks foolish, dangerous, and worse. But the gulf between middle-aged parents and their newly grown-up children to-day is singularly difficult to bridge; in laying the onus of greater understanding on the parents the Archbishop sets a task many of them are too discouraged to undertake.

Young people are always faintly irritating to the old—and by "old" we do not mean the senile, but men and women who have already tried life out for half a century and formed their own conclusions. The young are so crude; so lacking in proportion; so much more attractive when they have "fined down" a little and become more stable in their ways. So much more likeable, in fact, in the older generation's view, when some of that tiresome youth has been worn away, and they have dropped imperceptibly into their own generation, making way for another.

Children have only one advantage over their parents—that they still have life before them; and because it is, besides being their only one, a very powerful advantage, they often make a cruelly free use of it.

When children are very young there is no hostility between the generations; the authority of the parents is complete; and the children themselves absorbed in making their own slow adjustment to life. It is such a difficult thing, in a world of adults, to be a child!

Think of it. To begin with, you are hopelessly outnumbered. Parents and the dictatorship of the grown-up hierarchy hem you in on every side. Everything is the wrong size for you; a minor irritation, perhaps, but part of the hostility of the world you are born into, full of gigantic tables and chairs, and door-knobs that are not designed for you to reach.

The Onus Of Authority

The only link between you and this sly, uncomfortable world is the parents who brought you into it, and at that age they usually make some effort towards the "understanding" they despair of when you reach your twenties. Then it is that parents give the matter up in amazed disappointment, and children become impatient with their parents; and there is often that angry misunderstanding and bitterness that takes the bloom off the happiness of so many families. If, as well as urging parents to "understand" their children, the Archbishop had given them a hint on how to do it, he would become for even a sort of Parents' Patron. But even the Archbishop does not seem to know the secret.

I believe it is the twin bogies of authority and interference that dam the clear flow of understanding between two generations. Fear of punishment, or, at the least, of disapproval, teaches the young child a habit of reticence that in later years is almost impossible to break. Some parents who are honest enough to think about it wonder if they have any right to encroach on that reticence at all, seeing that they themselves are not as a rule in the habit of confiding their mistakes or their indiscretions to their children.

The less that authority is painfully apparent, the better chance there is for friendly understanding when the child grows up. I often think there is much to be said for the revolutionary theory of having children brought up, not by their parents, but by the State. Then all the horrid onus of authority would fall on that impersonal body, and parents and children would be free to make friends and break the rules together.

Too Much Supervision

Nor is the confidence of grown-up children won by parental supervision and interference. Parents who insist on knowing all the details of their children's lives are simply asking for deception. The fond mother who continually bleats, "My children tell me everything," is invariably the one behind whose stupid back the most shocking goings-on are delightedly indulged in.

One thing which present-day parents find it hard to understand in their grown-up sons and daughters (though, as the Archbishop told them, they should try) is their collapsed faith in the familiar institutions of their world. Parents in their fifties can still remember the comforts and pleasures of the old order, and, loving them, believe they must return.

Children in their twenties have seen nothing but the collapse and failure of the things their parents lived by, have seen too many violent changes, too many idols broken, too much blood spilt, to have much confidence in anything they cannot build themselves. Institutions and empires that once looked immortal they now see cracking like old skyscrapers, built to serve and have a contemporary beauty, but not to last.

In the last ten years, too, the "new generation" that takes so much understanding by its long-suffering parents has developed an almost terrifying sense of responsibility about the world in general, which the older generation, steeped in the tradition that everything will somehow come right in the end, is inclined to smile at, feeling it knows better. The generation that is young to-day has had to realise with violent suddenness that modern history is not just something you read about in the papers; it is something they have got to do and live themselves.

NEW LEGISLATION FOR OPIUM

Recent Full Court Decision Re-Called.

REGULATIONS TIGHTENED

Legislation prohibiting the use of premises as opium divans and amending the law relating to opium, is announced in the current issue of the Government Gazette.

The Bill, cited as the Opium Amendment Ordinance, 1934, repeals section 15 of the Opium Ordinance, 1932, as amended in 1933, and substitutes the following section:—

(1) No person shall smoke opium in any opium divan; or keep or manage or act or assist in the management of any opium divan; or being the tenant, lessee, occupier, or person in charge of any place, knowingly permit such place or any part thereof to be used as an opium divan; or being the lessor or landlord of any place, or the agent of such lessor or landlord, let the same or any part thereof with the knowledge that such place or some part thereof is to be used as an opium divan, or consent to the use, at any time, of such place or any part thereof as an opium divan.

(2) In and for the purposes of this section, "lessee" and "tenant" respectively include any sub-lessee or sub-tenant.

"Lessor" and "landlord" respectively include the holder of any lease or tenancy who has sublet his holding or any part thereof.

The lessor or landlord of any place, or the agent of such lessor or landlord, shall be presumed to have consented to the use of such place as an opium divan, if it is proved, to the satisfaction of the magistrate, that he knew of such use, and failed forthwith to proceed to put an end to the same, by making a report at the nearest police station, or by terminating the lease or tenancy, or by such means as are reasonably sufficient in all the circumstances of the case.

OBJECTS AND REASONS

The object and reasons for the Bill are as follows:—

Section 3 of the opium Amendment Ordinance, 1933, amended section 15 of the principal Ordinance by "bringing within the scope of the section owners, occupiers and managers of premises who knowingly suffer them to be used as divans."

In a recent case the Full Court decided that the tenant of a floor of a Chinese tenement house who had sublet a portion of that floor was not an occupier of the portion so sublet within the meaning of the amended section.

The present amendment substitutes for section 15 of the principal Ordinance an amended section on the lines of section 13 of the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885, re-enacting in different terms the provisions of old section 15 relating to persons who smoke in, keep or occupy an opium divan, and, extending those provisions to include a lessor or landlord who knowingly lets, or having let wilfully consents to the use of, his holding or any part thereof for the purposes of an opium divan.

The sub-section 2 of new section 15 indicates the scope of the terms "lessee", "tenant", "lessor" and "landlord" used in the section, and the steps which a lessor or landlord who becomes aware that the premises let by him are used as an opium divan should take in order to discharge the liability imposed on him by sub-section 1.

aspect of the same change.

So, all in all, we must seem crude and inconsiderate, a little ridiculously serious and self-opinionated to our parents. It is important both to them and to us that they should understand us, but it is not an easy job for them, and we must meet them at least half way.

In one thing at least the Archbishop does parents an injustice, for I never heard one of them "harping on the benefits" of their own generation in my life, and it is my private belief that "harping" is one of the prerogatives that present-day parents have given up, along with many time-honoured habits and convictions.

If anything, they tend to be a little timid because of the freedoms we have that they only wished for. It is we, in fact, who do the harping on our own advantages—another part of the egocentric thoughtlessness the older generation finds so unattractive and so difficult to understand.

on to-day's market. There seemed to be an increasing amount of in-

ket. Wheat:—The decline was checked by Washington reports of a reduction to one cent per bushel of the tax on future sales and also the possibility that there would be no commodity legislation this ses-

THE LAST HAUL

"What's he got to do with it?"

"Nothing, only..."

"Don't you worry about the Snapper, Moll. If he makes one little move he'll find a hole drilled square into his rat's head. To-night's my big night. Moll, it can't go wrong. I'm spilling the story easy-like all around so there won't be no mistake. I just pumped it into Morgan, he's probably up there now checking Pop..."

"Look out," she said.

He turned and met a pair of shifty black eyes set in a gray face. Street sounds came through the softly closing door. "Make mine a double," he said to the girl, then he drawled, "look who's here."

The gray lips moved. "Yeh." Raft lifted his glass. "Better luck next time, Snapper."

"Yeh."

He set down the empty glass.

"Well, cheerio, Moll."

The Snapper came to life.

"Leaving so soon?" he said.

"I have one on me."

Raft's eyes held for a moment on the thin, emaciated figure, gray with prison pallor, then they moved to the strong, bony fingers that could snap a man's neck like a piece of pasteboard.

"Right," he said, "a double on the Snapper."

They waited, watching each other. The clink of glass on the counter between them.

"How's for busting along with you to-night?" said the Snapper.

"Can't. Busy."

"Big haul?"

"You got it wrong, I'm the angel boy to-night. Sitting in on a big game with Pop Garvin. Settling an old score."

The Snapper moved his glass an inch. The long bony fingers that spurned a gun knuckled curiously.

"I'll drop in," he said.

"No, it's private. Just him and me."

"You like old Garvin, don't you?"

He kinda looked after you when your old man died, didn't he?"

"Lay off Pop," said Raft, softly.

"I don't mean nothing. He's the ex-convict with me. I was just explaining to myself why you'd waste a Saturday night with him when—the Snapper's voice sank to a dreamy note—"there's a haul drifting—and Epstein's—waiting—to pay for it."

Raft's hand lay suddenly still on the counter. So the rat had the low-down. Yes, it was coming soon. To-night, in fact, nice round little hole in that pasty skull...

"You should have sprung it earlier," he said, carelessly, "I'm tied up with Pop now." He paused.

"Alone," he added, softly.

A curious light flared suddenly in the Snapper's eyes. He stared for a suspended instant into the mirror over the fireplace, then slowly his gaze came back. "It don't matter," he said, "drink up."

He lifted the glass. His eyes were black exultant beads over the rim.

He set it down empty. "Well, I'm romping," he said.

Raft stared as the door closed softly. The shadow of the girl intruded. "Did you see," she whispered, sharply, "he had a gun! He knows the layout, he's going, too!"

"Take it easy, Moll."

"Jim, I... I'm afraid! Don't go to-night! What'll the money be to me if you're found with a bullet..."

Raft continued to stare at the closed door. "There won't be no bullet, Moll, not in me. That rat don't shoot—he strangles, and you got to get near a man to strangle."

The door opened suddenly.

Raft's hands hot to his hip, then dropped slowly as a group of stragglers came in.

"Well, cheerio, baby, wish me luck. Got a big game on at Pop Garvin's to-night. She you to-morrow."

Raft lay in a bleak bare room above the waterfront, sleeping peacefully. All had gone like a song. The bolts, Epstein's lorry, the rolls of money, paid out and cached away, and not a copper within shouting distance. Even the Snapper had lost his nerve and laid off, which was the wisest thing he ever did...

Raft slept smiling faintly. Moll and he were on a boat, she was unpacking now laying her things beside him, he could hear her moving about...

He sat up suddenly, wide awake. A dark form was bending over him.

"What the hell," he rasped. "Oh, it's you, Morgan."

There was a fun glint in Morgan's eye. "You've torn it this Silencer. Hop up."

"What time is it?"

"Nine o'clock of a bright Sunday morning. Hop."

Raft shrugged amiably and got up. So they'd found out already. He hadn't banked on the news breaking until Monday morning, but it didn't matter. Epstein had burned up a good many miles by now, as for himself, he was with Pop last night, the hat and coat were still up there to prove it, but he wouldn't spout that right off. A good alibi never slid out like a greased pig...

The station looked like a firemen's convention. The crowd who had come into the Singing Mate last night were in the corner. Two beefy blues held down a bench by the door. An officer was sitting behind the desk and just to the right of him stood the Snapper, looking as though he had eaten four canaries. Yeh? Well, this was going to be the world's prize joke on the Snapper...

"Where were you last night between one and two?" barked the officer.

"Who, me? Out."

"Fancy," murmured Morgan. "Why? Something happen?"

said Raft, innocently. His glance brushed the crowd and came to rest mockingly on the Snapper.

"Where were you between one and two?"

"Hell," Raft made a gesture of sullen reluctance, "I was up at Pop Garvin's throwing the pasteboards."

"Garvin's?" exclaimed the officer, incredulously. "Was anyone else there?"

"No. Pop and me were setting an old score."

"Now fancy that," murmured Morgan. Suddenly he shot forward. "How about 1.45. Silencer?"

1.45 That was just about the time Epstein was taking over the load. Had the cops spotted the getaway? "Didn't I tell you I was there until two?"

"Until two," echoed Morgan.

MOTORING NOTES

Europe's Largest Showrooms

Car Mart Premises In London

The new premises of The Car Mart, Ltd., necessarily situated at Stanhope House, 320, Euston Road, are claimed to be the largest self-contained showrooms in Europe.

Having accommodation, if need be, for 250 cars, there is adequate space on the five floors and in the basement for unrestricted inspection.

With the same object, the lighting is of the most modern type, notable for the even diffusion.

The decoration is simple and modern, whilst the building is kept at an even temperature by central heating.

Fireproof shutters on all floors and fireproof floor material contribute to a very high standard of safety, and a self-levelling car lift, two staircases and two passenger lifts allow easy access to all floors.

One Floor For Austins

One floor is devoted to Austin cars, another to used cars up to £100, whilst the showrooms on the ground floor, decorated in marble and light oak, are representatively arranged.

In the basement there are facilities for making new cars ready for the road in the minimum of time, whilst the formality of taxing can be quickly effected.

RECORD BROKEN IN SNOWSTORM.

Captain Eyston's Feat at Monthery.

Paris. Captain George Eyston and Mr. Bart Denley smashed the 48-hour record recently on the Monthery track by covering 7366.537 kilometres (4578 miles). The average speed was rather over 95 miles an hour.

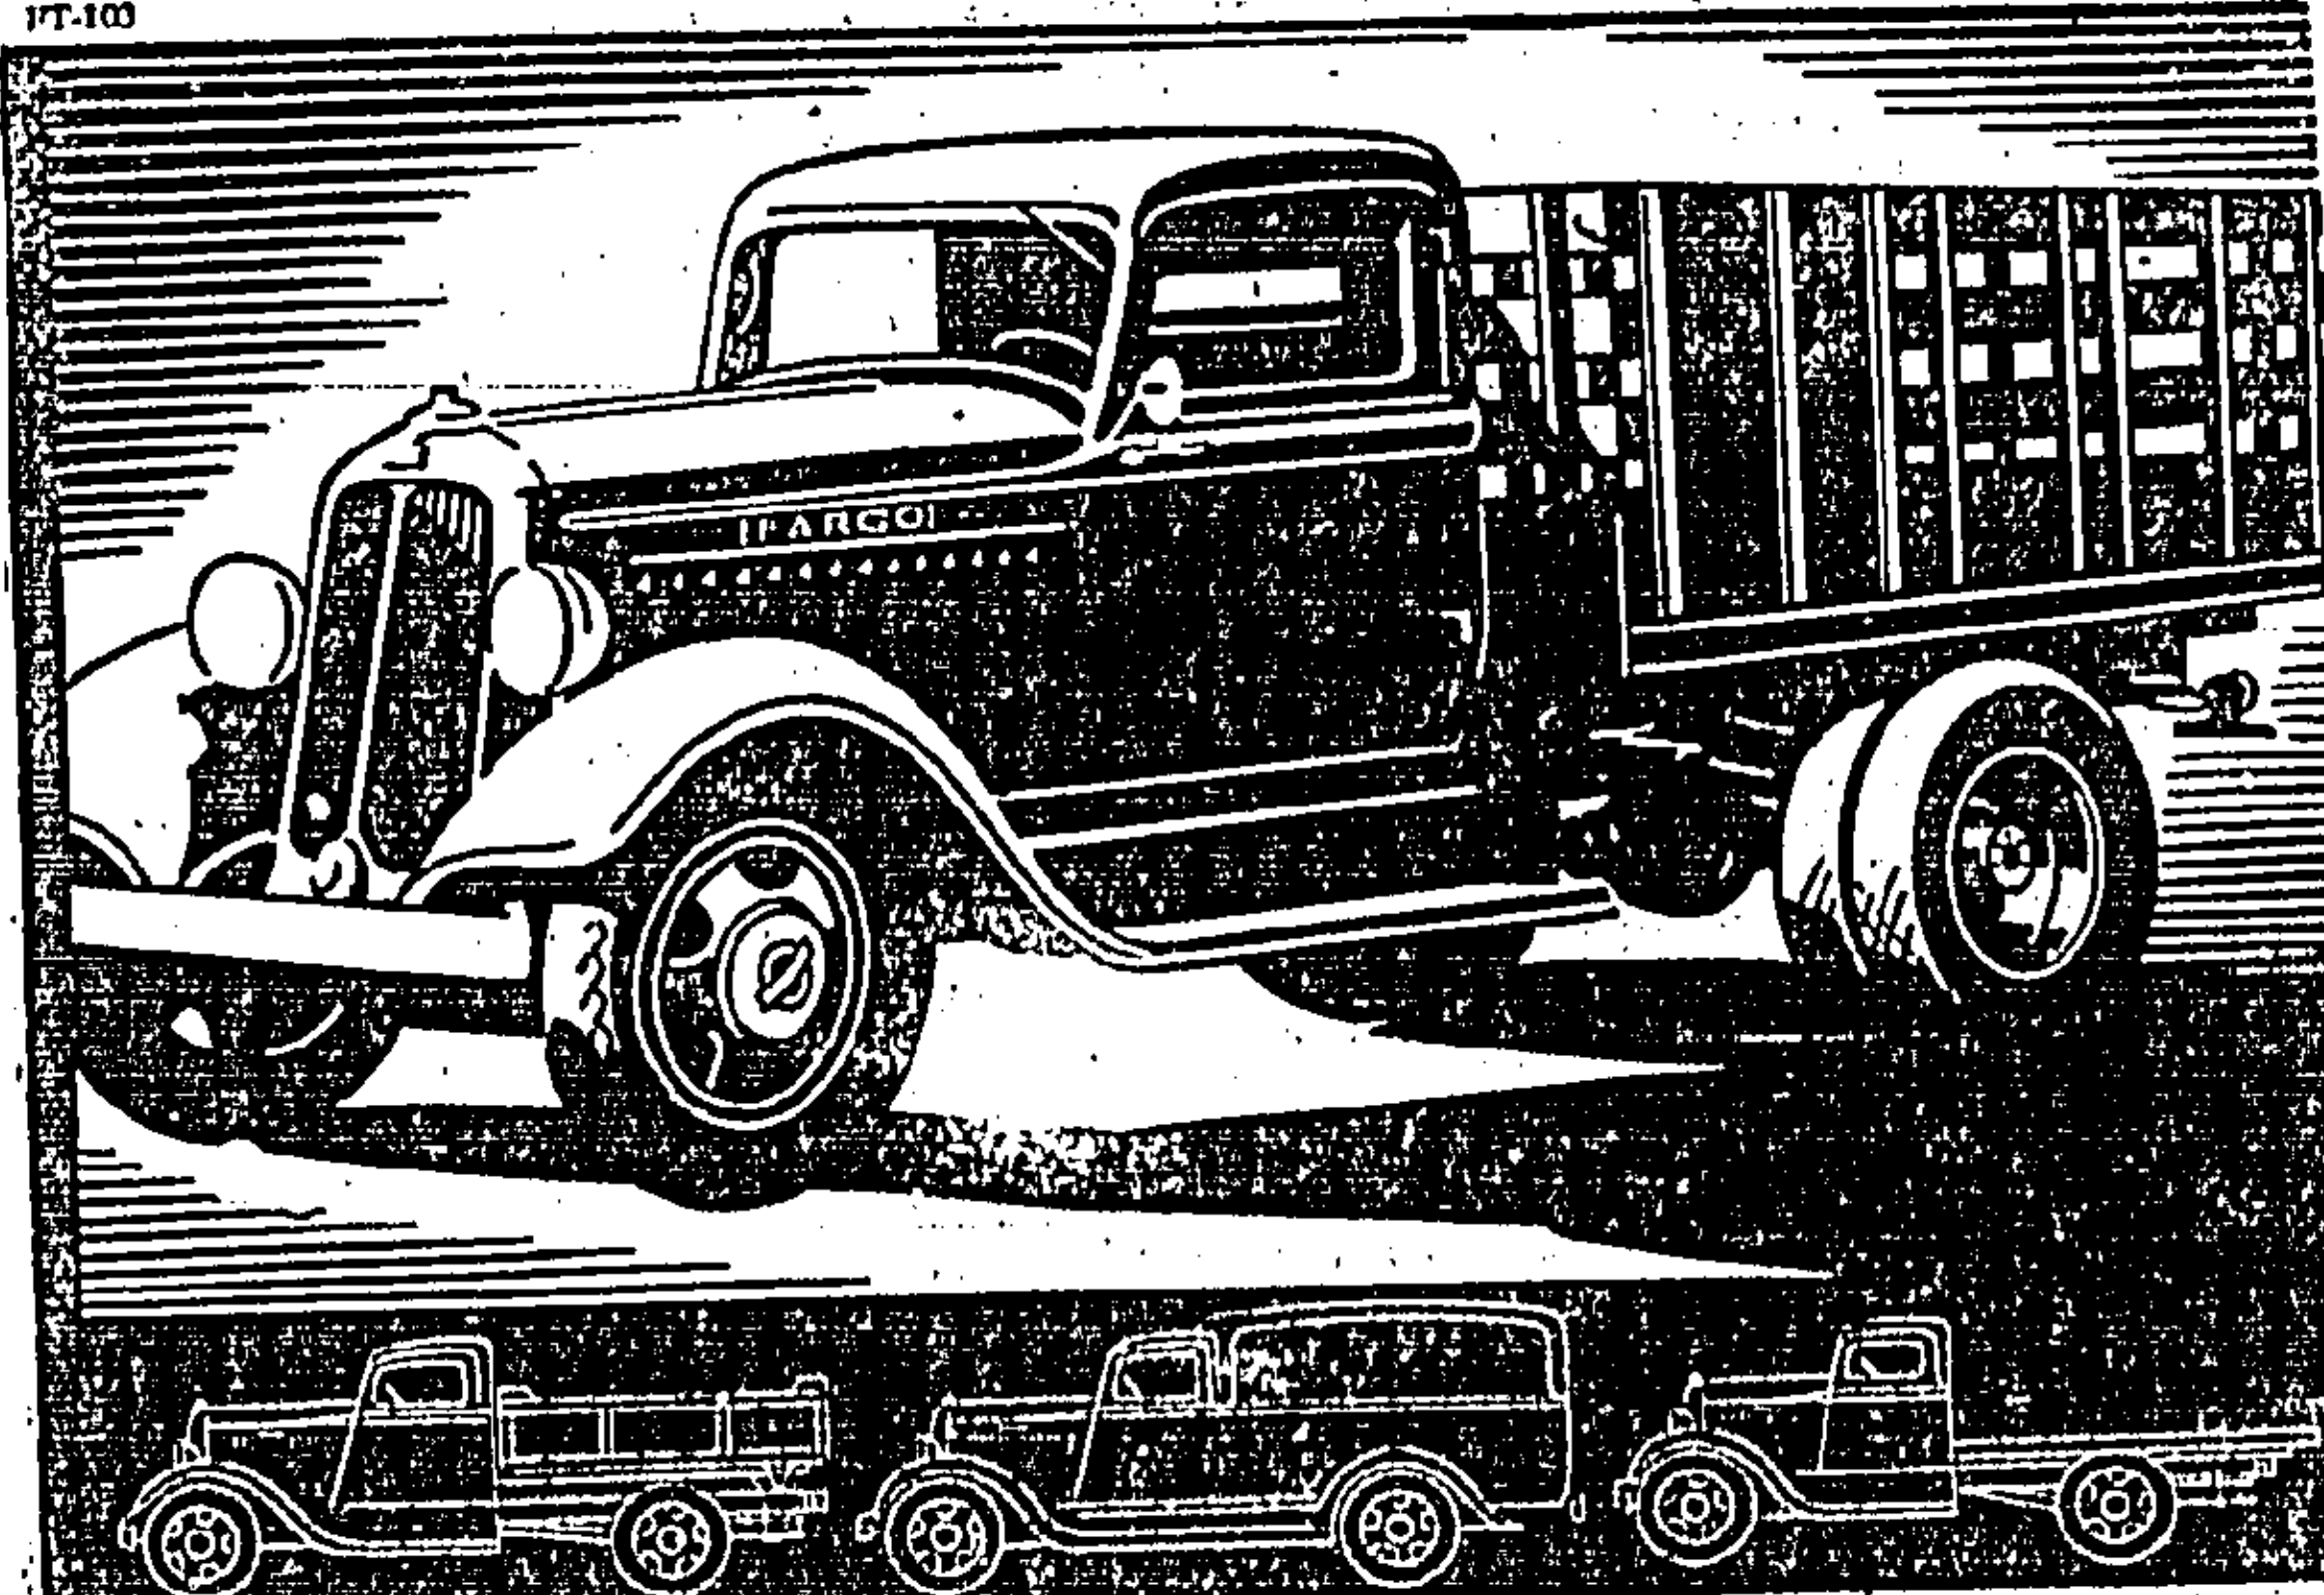

Among the records broken are the 500 kilometres, the distance being covered at an average speed of 156.567 kilometres an hour, and the 4000 kilometres covered at an average of 155.907 kilometres an hour.—Central News.

An Exchange message says that the car slowed up somewhat to-day because of snow, but Captain Eyston went on to break the 5000-mile record.

The organization provides for the client who wishes to choose a car in a short time, or at his leisure, from a wide range or in a limited field.

An interesting point is that the building is set back in order to conform to the proposed widening of the road.

For the utmost TRUCK PERFORMANCE!
the Answer is FARGO
MADE BY CHRYSLER

Performance means maximum efficiency over a long period of time, a minimum of maintenance cost, plus the ability to work continuously under trying conditions. All these—and more—can be expected of FARGO—a truck designed, engineered and built to do hard work and lots of it. Today truck operators know—The Answer is Fargo.

Delayed Action "Squeeze" At Bridge

(By FRANK ENGLAND)

Most Contract players have heard of the squeeze play, the coup by which the extra trick required for slam game or contract is only obtainable by playing out a long-established suit.

As the opponents are forced to discard, it invariably happens that one of them reaches a point where he is obliged to unguard an honour in one of two other suits held strongly by the declarer. He is "squeezed": whichever card he plays gives the contract to the declarer.

The ordinary squeeze is fairly easily recognizable by the majority of knowledgeable players; for those who have difficulty, I would recommend a little book just published, "Squeeze Play," by Robert Rendel. (George Allen and Unwin, Ltd.).

One of the most difficult of the squeeze situations—at least, so I find—is what the Americans term the "delayed" squeeze, two examples of which I have come across in an interesting new book by Mr. Milton Work and Mrs. Olive Petersen entitled "One Hundred and One Celebrated Hands in Contract Bridge."

Careful "Spotting"

Shortly, this consists in allowing one opponent to win a trick in a suit in which his partner is void and so making the opponent, not the declarer, do the "squeezing" of his partner. The type of hand requires careful "spotting"—sometimes at the first trick, at other times when the play has developed two or three tricks.

A "delayed" squeeze:

North:—
S.—A Q 6 2
H.—A 5 3
D.—4 3 2
C.—K 10 6.

West:—
S.—9
H.—Q J 9 8 6 4 2
D.—J 8
C.—8 5 3

East:—
S.—J 10 8 5 3

D.—Q 10 9 7 5
C.—9 7 2

South:—
S.—K 7 4
H.—K 10 7
D.—A K 6
C.—A Q J 4

South deals. East-West vulnerable.

Bidding: South North
Either 2 No Trumps 4 No Trumps
6 No Trumps

or 1 Club 1 Spade
2 No Trumps 4 No Trumps
5 No Trumps 6 No Trumps

In either case the final contract is small slam in No Trumps played by South.

West's obvious opening lead is Queen of Hearts, which South takes with his King. He can see eleven tricks in high cards, so that he knows, at once that only by an even distribution of the Spade suit, or failing that a "squeeze," can twelve be made, and East, with no Heart at all, is clearly the only opponent that can be "squeezed."

East's discard on the first trick is a small Club, and South now leads four rounds of Clubs, on the last two of which East discards a Diamond and a Spade. Two rounds of Spades show West to be void, and South can now count West's and East's original hand. He realises that if he can force two more discards from East, he either will have to unguard the Jack of Spades or Queen of Diamonds.

South now leads a losing Heart allowing West to win and forcing the first discard from East. West can only return a Heart or Diamond, and, if a Diamond, South leads another Heart and completes East's discomfort. If East throws a Spade South makes a fourth Spade; if a Diamond, a third Diamond.

There is no escape for the unfortunate East, but he can only be squeezed if he is forced to discard three times on Hearts, and, to do this, East must allow West to win a Heart trick.

The next hand is not nearly so easy to "spot."

SHEK O BURGLAR FOILED.

Sir William Shenton's House Entered.

DOG GIVES ALARM AT MR. TURNER'S RESIDENCE

It is reported that the residence of Sir William Shenton, at Shek O, was entered on Friday night by an unknown Chinese. Nothing, however, is reported to have been stolen.

At 11.30 on Friday night the same intruder entered the house of Mr. M. H. Turner, also at Shek O, gaining admission through an open first floor window. Mr. Turner's dog gave the alarm and the thief then left without taking anything.

THE LAST HAUL.

The officer smiled incredulously. He looked like a man who had held a joker before. "Call the girl!" he said grimly.

One of the beefy blues went out. He came back with Molly Conant.

"Hell," growled Raft, "you don't need to drag her into this." He turned, his lean face staring. "Tell the blighters where I was, they got nothing on me."

"I've told them over and over, Jim. They don't seem to me." Her voice took on a weary note of reiteration. "He was up playing cards with Mr. Garvin."

"Now why," said Morgan, softly, "would you say a thing like that?" "He said he was going up." She hesitated a fraction of a second, then she added, coolly, "Besides, I saw Pop this morning, he told me himself."

A sudden electric silence gripped the room. The two beefy blues sat forward. A swift glance shot between Morgan and the officer, then all at once Morgan's hand reached out and closed like a vice on Raft's shoulder.

"Here, what's up?" he snarled. All at once he caught the burning, exultant eyes of the Snapper. They were like live coals. A sick, unaccountable fear leaped in him. He jerked from Morgan to the officer, then suddenly he clutched Morgan's arm. "I say, what... what's up? Didn't you hear? She said she saw Pop, ask him yourself, get him in here."

"Fancy your not knowing," Morgan's smile was wonderfully gentle. "Pop Garvin was found in his room at 2.10 this morning with a .38 drilled through his forehead."

West:—

C.—8 5 4

North-South vulnerable. West deals and the bidding goes:

West East
1 Diamonds 2 No Trumps
4 No Trumps 5 No Trumps
6 No Trumps

and South has only one possible lead, the King of Hearts. Again East has 11 high-card tricks and can only establish a fourth trick in either Spades or Clubs by a squeeze. To effect this he must pass the first Heart trick.

After taking the second Heart trick, five Diamond and the Ace, Queen, of Clubs are made and East then puts himself in with the King of Spades. At the eleventh trick the following interesting situation emerges:—

North:—
S.—J
C.—J 10

West:—
S.—A 9
H.—10

East:—
S.—8
C.—K 7

South:—
S.—Q 6
H.—J

East leads the King of Clubs and South must now discard a Spade or West makes the 10 of Hearts.

Note that if East takes the first Heart trick and does not "delay" the squeeze the contract cannot be made. Try it and see.

15 PROVED USES FOR ASPRO

- 1 It Relieves Headaches in 5 to 10 minutes.
- 2 It Brings Sweet Sleep to the Sleepless.
- 3 It Relieves Rheumatism in one night.
- 4 It will ease the nagging pains of Neuritis and Neuralgia.
- 5 Take 'ASPRO' to Relieve Toothache.
- 6 'ASPRO' taken according to directions will smash up a Cold or Flu attack in 24 hours.
- 7 It Brings Relief without harming the Heart.
- 8 It soothes away Irritability.
- 9 It speedily reduces Temperature.

- 10 The stabbing pains of Sciatica and Lumbago can be hunted out with 'ASPRO'.
- 11 It can be taken at any time, in Train, at Home, at Business—anywhere—everywhere.
- 12 It gives great relief to women at their time of periodical depression.
- 13 It relieves ill after-effects of Alcohol.
- 14 It relieves Dengue and Malaria by reducing the Fever.
- 15 As a Gargle, 'ASPRO' is wonderful for Sore Throats, Tonsillitis, etc.

The PURITY of ASPRO

The purity of 'ASPRO' conforms to the standard laid down by the British Pharmacopoeia—the guiding authority of the Medical Profession. With 'ASPRO' there is no Free Salicylic Acid, therefore, it does not harm the Stomach, or have any injurious after-effects, such as palpitation, nausea, dizziness or other troubles. Safeguard your health and heart by always insisting on 'ASPRO'.

ONLY THE GENUINE CAN STAND THE TEST OF TIME.

The public are well acquainted with the scores of medicines for which all sorts of claims are made, that keep coming on the market from time to time. They come and go and fade out one after another. The reason is obvious. No public service, or utility can exist indefinitely unless it really serves. With 'ASPRO' it is a different story. For over fifteen years 'ASPRO' has progressed all over the world, and the reasons are:— 1. 'ASPRO' fulfils all claims made for it. 2. 'ASPRO' meets all requirements of the standards required by analytical tests. Furthermore, 'ASPRO' conforms to the standard of Purity laid down by the British Pharmacopoeia (the guiding authority of the Medical Profession). The report of an Eminent English Analyst published in this announcement, and always keep 'ASPRO' in the home ready for any emergency.

'ASPRO' is Woman's Best Friend

Possibly the greatest users of 'ASPRO' are women, for whom 'ASPRO' has a special charm on account of the varied periodical experiences with which all women are familiar. They surely know just what a wonderful soothing and pain dispeller 'ASPRO' is. Millions of women throughout the World now regularly take 'ASPRO', the safe, sure and effective medicine, to relieve their pain and accompanying physical depression, who before had to resort to dangerous drugs, narcotics or opiates. The understanding woman uses 'ASPRO'.

EMINENT BRITISH ANALYST'S REPORT ON 'ASPRO'

London, S.E.1.
Dear Sirs,
For some time past I have examined every consignment of the raw material used for the manufacture of your 'ASPRO' Tablets. I have also arranged for this to be the invariable practice in the future. I have in every case found it to be of the highest possible standard of purity—containing no traces of any impurities whatsoever. I have not, on any single occasion, found the minutest trace of free Salicylic Acid, which is, as you know, the particular impurity objected to in inferior brands of this important substance.

Yours faithfully,
(Signed) H.Sc.F.I.C., F.C.S.

ENGLAND BEAT SCOTLAND

Three Clear Goals At Wembley.

ARSENAL PLAYER SCORES

London, Yesterday.
England beat Scotland by 3 goals to nil in the International Soccer Championship at Wembley to-day, after leading by a goal scored by Bastin, of the Arsenal, in the first half.

Last year Scotland won at Glasgow by 2 goals to 1. The only time the Scots have won at Wembley was in the 1927-8 series; the first at the Stadium.

Scotland have won 26 games to England's 17 in the series of 58 encounters, scoring 112 goals to their opponents' 95.

LLOYD GEORGES AND SOCIALISM

Major Lloyd George has been Independent Liberal member for Pembroke since 1929, and was National Liberal member for the same constituency from 1922 to 1924. In 1931, he was Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade.

WEATHER FORECAST

Cloudy generally, with moderate north-east winds, freshening, was the weather forecast issued by the Royal Observatory yesterday evening.

FRENCH GOVT. WILL ENFORCE ECONOMIES

Firm Refusal Of Concessions.

PROTEST DEMONSTRATIONS BANNED

Paris, Yesterday.

The French Government will not tolerate any demonstration calculated to disturb public order, states an official communique issued after a Cabinet meeting, yesterday, in reference to the proposed civil servants' demonstration.

The communique adds that the decree relating to cuts in ex-Servicemen's pensions will operate as from April 1.

The Government has thus refused the ex-Servicemen's demands that the three per cent. cut should operate on June 1.

The Premier, M. Gaston Doumergue, explained that such a concession would upset the whole Recovery scheme.

Measures have already been taken to deal with the ringleaders responsible for patial strikes. —Reuter.

C.N.A.C. PLANE UNLOCATED

Lunghwa Aerodrome, on Tuesday morning.

No trace of the missing machine has yet been found despite the fact that approximately a dozen planes are engaged in the search, and hopes hitherto entertained for its safety, are fast diminishing.

The service between the two cities has been temporarily suspended owing to three of the planes engaged on the service being out of commission. One crashed at Selshan Island, Hangchow Bay, last November, while another was forced down on Thursday.

The missing plane was piloted by Mr. Gast, an American, with an American as mechanic and a Japanese as passenger.

Inflation Bills Sidetracked to the Federal Reserve. Proponents argue that the freeing of frozen deposits will stimulate business and immediately hasten recovery. It is estimated that U.S.$2,000,000,000 would be required.

The amendment, by which the House Committee side-tracked the measure, provides for the inclusion of all State national banks, but limits the 100 per cent. payments to accounts not exceeding U.S.$2,500.
